Record Attendance At 1957 Alumni Banquet

The Grand Ballroom of New York's Plaza Hotel, overflowing with the largest assemblage of New York Medical College Alumni ever to gather for an Annual Banquet, was the scene on May 27th of one of the most thrilling presentations ever made: to Dr. J. A. W. Hetrick, retiring President of the College voted the Outstanding Alumnus of 1957, went a brand-new and specially-designed Medallion.

Dr. Walter Mersheimer, President of the Alumni Association, made the official presentation of the Medallion not only to the new winner but to all past recipients of the award. On hand to receive their awards were: for the year 1950, Dr. Marcus D. Kogel (Class of 1927), former Commissioner of Hospitals of the City of New York and now Dean of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine; for 1956, Dr. Sprague Carleton (Class of 1906), former Professor and Director of the Department of Urology and presently Professor and Director of the Department of Graduate Urology, Dr. Frederick Dearborn (Class of 1900), Professor of Dermatology and Alumnus Trustee of the New York Medical College and Dr. Joseph H. Fobes (Class of 1901) former Professor and Director of Surgery and presently Professor and Director of the Department of Graduate Surgery. Medallions were awarded posthumously: for the year 1954 to Dr. Roy Upham (Class of 1901), founder of the National Gastroenterology Society which later became the American College of Gastroenterology; 1955, Dr. Reuel A. Benson (Class of 1903), former Professor and Director of the Department of Pediatrics and later Professor and Director of the Department of Graduate Pediatrics.

The Banquet itself, which culminated the yearly get-together featuring an open meeting and a President's Reception, afforded the more than 350 alumni present a wonderful opportunity for individual 5-year class reunions. Well represented, in addition to the 1957 graduating class, were members of the classes of 1952, 1942, 1937, 1932, 1927, 1917—and 7 members of the class of 1907!

The official Banquet Program was toast-mastered by Dr. Mersheimer who welcomed everyone and officially greeted our newest members and guests of honor for the evening, the Class of 1957. Following this he introduced Dean Ralph Snyder who in turn presented Silver Certificates to the 21 members present of the Class of 1932, celebrating 25 years in the practice of medicine.

Dr. Mersheimer then introduced the new Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Mr. Frederic Lincoln, who spoke briefly but pointedly on the vital necessity of continuing fund-raising activities on behalf of the College and the need for individual alumni support.

Following this Dean Snyder rose once again to deliver to Alumni the eagerly awaited annual State of the College report. (Complete report

THE MEDALLION

The obverse side of the Medallion (shown on cover) portrays Chiron and Aesculapius. It is stated that Aesculapius was the son of the God Appolo and the maid Coronis. After the death of Coronis, Appolo brought Aesculapius to Chiron to bring up on Mt. Pellion. Many notables had given their sons to Chiron to rear but of all his pupils, Aesculapius was his favorite.

THE COVER

A feature of the 1957 Alumni Banquet, Dr. J. A. W. Hetrick '18, Outstanding Alumnus of the Year, is awarded Medallion by Dr. Walter Mersheimer, President.

FIRST POST - GRADUATE ASSEMBLY

On Saturday, May 18th, 1957, fifty physicians from all parts of the United States and Latin America met in the auditorium of the College to register for the First Post-Graduate Assembly in Fertility and Sterility. The course was sponsored by the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology under the direction of Dr. Martin L. Stone, Director, and Dr. Abner I. Weisman, Chief of the Section on Fertility and Sterility.

This course was primarily designed for specialists in the field and emphasis was placed on the clinical aspects of human infertility including recent advances in diagnosis and therapy. The students came from 13 States and 22 Latin American countries to the reception held on the 18th. The auditorium was bedecked with flags from all participating nations. Speeches of welcome were made by Dr. Stone, Dr. Weisman, Dr. Rubin and Dr. Decker.

The course was high-lighted by the use of closed circuit television from the operating room to the auditorium and I.B.M. automatic translators for the benefit of the Latin American students. The unique feature of the course was the International Professors' Days held on May 29th and 30th. On these two days 18 noted guest professors from the United States and Latin America presented papers to a capacity audience which included, in addition to the students in the course, 300 guests from in and around New York City. Luncheon was served at the College for all the guests.

A "Graduation" banquet was held at the end of the course at the Harmonie Club at which time the students and guest professors received certificates for participation in the course.

OUR TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY 1932 - 1957

The class of 1932 celebrated (and I mean celebrated) their Twenty-Fifth Anniversary on Saturday, June 1, with a gala dinner-dance—high above Manhattan's streets, the Sky Garden Roof of the St. Moritz Hotel. The preliminary event, the drinks and hors d'oeuvres, got off at 8 P.M. As classmate after classmate arrived, with wives, only one to a man of course, things started to fly. At first, it was hellos, then experiences, then reminiscences, then laughter. The wives, and a most beautiful group they were, kept pulling at their husband's sleeves, asking, "who is that" and "where is the one you told me about" and "I remember that girl or that classmate." Despite the tremendous quantities of food and drink, or maybe because of it, the hubbub continued to increase. Our private bar got the best polishing from feet and elbows it had had in years. Our musicians wisely played their background music softly to avoid raising the level of conversation above a scream.

When our thirty-four classmates and their wives—by this time some had two wives—had finished the preliminary event, we left our reception room and floated into the dining room. Everyone chose a chair, and as we approached our fruit cups with attacking spoons, the photographer said "hold pretty, please," and snapped the photo you see here. "Don't we look young?" We waltzed, tangoed, cha-chaed, rhumba-ed, merinque-ed (for you oldsters, that's a dance not a dessert) and fox-trotted for the next two hours. Of course, we ate courses in between. Our open terrace, thirty-one floors above Central Park, on a balmy, clear evening, provided a cool, relaxing spot when the food and dancing got too hot.

As the dessert was being served, I had the pleasure of distributing twenty-five year silver certificates to those of our classmates who were unable to attend Monday's Alumni Association banquet. Not a speech was made to mar the pleasure of the evening. At One A.M., as the band played Auld Lang Syne, we collected our hats, coats and a list of addresses of all classmates, said our goodbyes and faithfully promised to meet again five years from now. God be willing we will.

LEON PARIS, Class Secretary

P.S.—The thirty-four classmates present were: Edward Bader, Aaron Barcham, Harold Birnkant, Joseph Bloom, Samuel Bloom, David Capson, Irving Cohen, Alton Cummings, Simon Dack, Alphonse Del Mauro, Harry DiBlanda, Arthur Frucht, Alexander Gold, Moe Goldberg, Joseph Goldfein, Leon Greenberg, Sol Gurshman, John Horowitz, Abraham Karver, Jules Koch, Martin Kronish, David Loebman, David Marcus, David Molinoff, Leon Paris, Irving Pine, Robert Rein, Alexander Richman, Marcus Rosenblum, Jacob Rothman, Morris Rudick, Samuel Spiro, Arthur Vigdor, Abner Weisman.

Leon Kellman and Sid Rosenfeld who had expected to be present were unfortunately ill that day. Both are better now. I must make special mention of four men who travelled long distances to be with us that night. Joe Bloom from Minnesota, Alton Cummings from Ohio, John Horowitz from Illinois, and Irv Pine from Ohio.

P.P.S.—A tremendous vote of thanks is due Miss Benson, the secretary of the Alumni Association, for the terrific amount of work she did. It could never have been a success without her.

1947 CLASS REUNION

June 8, 1957, approximately ten years after graduation, was the occasion for the first organized reunion of the members of the class of 1947. Forty-one members of the Class gathered at the Sky Garden Roof of the St. Moritz Hotel to celebrate their Tenth Reunion Dinner-Dance.

Long distance honors went to Jack Boyle who came from North Dakota, Bill Ford from Owosso, Michigan and Ian Thompson from Dallas, Texas. No matter how far or short a distance they travelled, however, a rip-roaring time was had by all graduates and their wives.

After an hour of meeting old friends, reminiscing about old times and imbibing a few cocktails, everyone enjoyed a roast beef dinner and the dance music of Don Broder's orchestra.

A short business meeting was held at which time the only matter discussed was a plan to have another reunion (15) in 1962. After that, dancing and merriment continued until the early hours of the morning.

The following classmates were present:

COMMENCEMENT

The Ninety-Eighth Commencement ceremony of the New York Medical College, J. A. W. Hetrick, M.D., President, was held at the New York Academy of Medicine on Tuesday, May 28, 1957, with Ralph E. Snyder, M.D., Dean of the College, presiding.

After the Processional and the Star Spangled Banner, the Invocation was given by the Reverend John Ellis Large, D.D., Rector, Church of the Heavenly Rest. Dean Snyder welcomed the members, friends and relatives of the graduating class and presented Morris A. Jacobs, M.D., Commissioner of the Department of Hospitals of the City of New York, who delivered the Commencement Address.

Dr. Jacobs stated that the most disturbing problem facing the medical profession today is providing adequate care of the increasing number of aged patients. "New York Medical College," he continued, "has been in the forefront in the care of our elder citizens." He expressed the appreciation of the City of New York to "New York Medical College, Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals for the substantial contributions being made to our populace for the excellent care rendered to the indigent sick." Dr. Jacobs also emphasized the responsibility of the physician as a citizen, stating that the physician must be prepared to take his place in the community by using the same intellectual approach that he uses in handling scientific matters.

Dr. Snyder then gave a short description of Hippocrates and the Hippocratic Oath, and Joseph H. Fobes, M.D., F.A.C.S., Professor and Director of our Department of Graduate Surgery, led the class in a very impressive administration of the Hippocratic Oath.

Mr. Frederic W. Lincoln, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, conferred the degree of Master of Medical Science in Surgery upon Alexander V. Rubino, M.D., and William J. A. Ford, M.D., and the degree of Doctor of Medicine upon the 109 members of the Graduating Class. (See listing on back cover)

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CLASS OF '32
from Leon Paris

All of us want to know what has been happening to all of us in the past twenty-five years. Won't you drop me a letter telling me about yourself so I can let our classmates know.

I will start with myself. I've spent all of my professional life in the Bronx. I do general medicine and take a special interest in allergy and arthritis. Four years ago I started the first arthritis clinic Fordham Hospital has ever had.

In June, 1957, my wife and I celebrated our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. I have two sons and a married daughter who has two daughters of her own.

Please write me so we can all rejoice in your good fortune, console each other for any past misfortune and hope together that all future fortune only be the best.

At the Annual Convention of the American Society of Anesthesiologists, I presented a paper entitled "The Anesthetic Management of Infants and Children Undergoing Surgery For The Correction of Double Aortic Arch." (This will appear in a forthcoming issue of Anesthesiology; co-author, William O. McQuiston). At the same meeting, McQuiston and I appeared on a color TV panel program, during which I demonstrated the hypothermic techniques we employ at the Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago for our cardiac surgery. October also brought certification by the American Board of Anesthesiology. I recently ran into Charley Swarts in Chicago. He is in Pediatrics and considering practicing in the Midwest. Met Jim McGinnis at the last A.M.A. Convention in Chicago. Jim started Freshman year with us. He is now with Wyeth Laboratories and is district manager around the Louisville, Kentucky area. He is quite happy and wanted to be particularly remembered to Jim Dobbins, Tom Halkey, Kay Livingstone, Paul Koether, Hal McDonald and Hugh McGrade. STATE OF THE COLLEGE REPORT

Delivered by Dean Snyder at Alumni Banquet

I consider it a privilege to be asked to deliver a state of the college report to the members of the Alumni Association gathered here this evening. I think that we can all be proud of the size of the alumni representation at this banquet tonight. I think it speaks well for the development of the Alumni Association and I feel sure that it speaks well for the growth and development of your medical college.

For five of the past six years your medical college has received more applications for admission than any other medical college in the country. For the first year class entering in September, 1957 we received over 1900 applications. Once again, it would appear that we are going to occupy this distinguished position. There is little doubt in my mind that this sustained volume of applications directly reflects the growth in recognition and stature of your medical college. I believe that it also represents a widespread approval of the admissions policies of the college. In keeping with the tradition of the independent privately-endowed medical college, every effort is made to select a class representing a wide geographical and institutional origin. The present freshman class represents 16 different states and 45 different undergraduate colleges. It may also be of interest to you to know that at the present time there are 4 sons of alumni in the freshman class and 10 sons of alumni in the entire student body.

By now, most of you know that for the past several years the curriculum of the college has been undergoing many changes. The student internship which started out on an elective basis was made the fourth year program for all fourth year students five years ago. This program is designed to reach medicine under conditions as closely approximating the actual practice of medicine as is possible. This program has proven to be very successful, and, I think that you may be interested to know that at the present time there are five medical colleges in the country that are attempting to establish this same type of program. The members of the present graduating class have already once discovered, to their pleasure, that they have learned more than they realized. Before they have completed their internship they will be even more surprised to discover that they have learned even more than they now believe they had learned.

→ To some extent, the success of this program is reflected by the increasing number of students who return to tell how much the program has meant to them. To an even greater extent, the success of our entire educational program is reflected by the constantly improving quality of the internships our graduates are obtaining and by the increasing number of favorable comments that we receive from those hospitals our graduates have interned in. I can assure you that it is a most satisfying experience.

At the present time the educational programs in the other years of the medical college curriculum are being studied and reviewed. Important changes are gradually being introduced and our program is being developed into a single cohesive four year program that I am confident will be one of the best in the country. Considerable credit for the successful development of this program rests with the members of the Faculty of the college.

In keeping with the educational growth of the medical college, there has been growth and development of our physical plant. Most of you know that we have already completed a four floor addition to the college building, which houses research laboratories, faculty offices and some expanded clinics. As everyone has anticipated, we have already outgrown this latest addition to our physical plant.

Most of you remember the old Metropolitan Hospital only too well. It would be impossible to forget the old Metropolitan Hospital after the college's nearly 70 years of association with this Hospital on Welfare Island. Most of you also know that the old Metropolitan has been closed and the new Metropolitan Hospital has been opened and is now a reality. This magnificent structure is located between 97th and 99th Streets and First and Second Avenues. Those of you who have not yet seen the new Metropolitan Hospital really owe it to yourself to pay this Hospital a visit. It is a completely new structure, modern in every respect, costing over 30 million dollars. It has an operating budget of well over a million dollars a year. It contains 1,060 beds and an out-patient department which is one of the finest in the city. With the closing of the City Hospital the out-patient department at Metropolitan Hospital will become the largest out-patient service in the City of New York. By the end of the year, if patient visits maintain their present level, it is expected that the census will reach nearly 400,000 patient visits. This is larger than the out-patient service at Bellevue Hospital which was formerly the largest in the city.

On Welfare Island we have the Bird S. Coler Hospital. This Hospital has been open just a few years and many of you are probably very familiar with this facility. This is a 2,000 bed hospital devoted to the care of the chronically ill and the geriatric patient. It is the finest facility of its kind in the United States. There are very active programs in all phases of patient care in this area. At Coler Hospital there is a rehabilitation service of over 300 beds. This rehabilitation service is unexcelled by any other in the country. The development of the program at Coler Hospital in this very important area of medical care is developing smoothly and, I believe, will represent a very significant contribution to the care of an aging population.

About a year and a half ago, at the request of the College, the Commissioner of Hospitals, then Dr. Basil C. McLean, approved the formation of the New York Medical College-Metropolitan Medical Center. This Medical Center is made up of the Medical College, serving as the nucleus, and the affiliated hospitals of Flower and Fifth Avenue, Metropolitan and Bird S. Coler. The formation of this Medical Center brought into being one of the largest single medical centers in the country. There are nearly 4,500 clinical teaching beds directly under the control of the college. Recently the present Commissioner of Hospitals, Dr. Morris A. Jacobs, has approved an administrative-center type of organization for Metropolitan and Bird S. Coler Hospitals. This will make possible the development of improved programs of medical education and patient care.

There have been some activities within certain departments that are worthy of special note. I have already indicated that the development of our Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, under Dr. Jerome S. Tobis, has proceeded rapidly and in a manner in keeping with the stature of the medical college. In addition to the large rehabilitation service at Coler Hospital, this department has special projects in rehabilitation involving Cerebral Palsy and Muscular Dystrophy children. Both of these projects receive substantial and significant support from the United Cerebral Palsy Association and the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In addition to this activity, a two-week course in the principles of geriatric rehabilitation was recently given by this department for the benefit of the para medical professions playing a part in rehabilitation. This course was received with tremendous enthusiasm. So great was the success of this course that we have received requests from nearly every significant public and voluntary agency to repeat this course in the fall and in the spring.

Many of you may have heard of the important work which is being done in the Department of Pediatrics under Dr. Slobody's direction concerning the mentally retarded child. The Mentally Retarded Children's Clinic at the hospital was one of the first in the United States and its development has now reached the point where it is nationally recognized as one of the foremost clinics of its kind in the country. It is supported by very large grants from the State, City and other organizations outside of the institution. There is little doubt that this particular program has contributed in a large measure to our increasing stature.

In the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, under the direction of Dr. Martin L. Stone, a very important course in Fertility and Sterility is under way. Participants in this course have arrived from all parts of the United States and from many South American countries. This course, one of the first of its kind to be given at a medical college, has been received very enthusiastically and has resulted in international interest and comment of a very favorable nature.

By singling out these three departments I do not mean to indicate that these are the only three departments that have made important contributions to the development of the school during the past year. I merely mention these three activities because they have the most widespread interest and are, perhaps, the most spectacular. Obviously, the growth and development of the medical college depends upon the growth and development of every department of the college and I can assure you that each department is working toward the same goal.

The Research Program at the college has made significant forward steps during the past year. I am very happy to inform you that during the past year the grants in support of research work being conducted by various members of the faculty have increased over $300,000.00. This means that during the past year our research budget at the college has reached a point which is now just under $1,000,000.00 a year. I think that this is a most significant step forward and I believe that this also indicates the growing stature and recognition of your medical college.

There have been two other important firsts during this past year. For the first time your medical college has successfully nominated a Markle Scholar. As you know, the Markle Scholar Program is supported by The John and Mary R. Markle Foundation. Each year this Foundation awards 25 scholarships to outstanding young men on the faculties of medical colleges who have indicated a desire to make a career of academic medicine and research. This award is one of the top awards in the field of medical education and I believe that we can all be justly proud that this honor has been granted to the medical college.

DEAN SNYDER'S REPORT

For a number of years we have been attempting to establish a chapter of Alpha Omega Alpha, the National Honor Society, at the College. I am very happy to report to you that this year our application was favorably acted upon and Iota Chapter of Alpha Omega Alpha was installed at this medical college on Friday, May 3rd. Six charter members of the faculty were initiated along with eleven members of the senior class and seven members of the junior class as charter student members. The event was marked by a banquet and members of the National Organization visited the college to participate. Again, I believe that both of these important events in the history of the college during the past year indicate the increasing stature and recognition of the medical college.

Harvey Tercentennial Celebration

CHARTER DAY PROGRAM

Today's art and political philosophy have influenced the miraculous development of modern medicine, Dr. Felix Marti-Ibanez told alumni and students at New York Medical College, Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospitals, Monday morning. The program combined observance of the college's 97th anniversary with commemoration of the tercentenary of the death of Harvey, discoverer of the circulation of the blood. Dr. Douglas Guthrie, noted medical historian from the University of Edinburgh, was a guest speaker. Dr. Ralph E. Snyder, Dean, presided.

"Never can one insist enough on the vital influence exerted by the so-called spirit of an epoch," said Dr. Ibanez, director of the college department of the history of medicine. "It is easy to understand today's miraculous progress in microbiology and antibiotic research if we relate it to atomic science, as borne by modern art, a disintegrated art, and by modern political philosophy, which has tended to atomize the old concept of nationalities.

"Likewise, the dynamic explosive movement of Baroque art and the use of the circular line to express emotion was a key to Harvey's obsession with the circulation of the blood. Harvey was a man straddling on the incoming edge of the Baroque, and if we fail to bear it in mind we deprive his magnificent obsession with movement, of its historical meaning. Baroque art expressed faithfully the dynamic concept of the world and life new to that period. Spiral columns soared into space, replacing the old classical columns, and the stone of cathedrals and palaces was wrenched from its mystic Gothic placidity and turned into whirlpools."

Dr. Ibanez emphasized that this yearning to impart movement to everything in existence that pervaded the Baroque period was the philosophical inspiration underlying Harvey's discovery that the blood moves and that it does so in a circle. Relating the influence of an era to medicine, he pointed out that the detail-loving Byzantine medicine was associated with the precious miniature work on the mosaics of Ravenna and Constantinople, and the progress in microscopy in the Romantic period was connected with the yearnings for "infinitism" embodied in their romantic poetry.

"Man's life spans one period in history, and his activities are determined by the cultural currents of his period," he said. "Harvey, a youth of 20 years, spent four decisive years in Padua and there became infused with the ideas of anatomy and motion stirred up by the Baroque. He returned to England thoroughly imbued with the anatomical teachings of Padua and Galileo's deductions on the movements of the heavenly bodies. Two themes were constantly to revolve in his mind in years to come; anatomy and movement.

"I have always thought that the greatest moment of any scientific discovery—when this was not a lucky accident—is not the actual instant at which the discovery is made, but that magnificent moment when a man conceives a theme of universal importance and decides to devote his entire life to its revelation. Harvey's supreme hour of greatness was represented by the period of those years when in his mind, turbulent with the biological conflicts of youth, was born the splendid purpose of dedicating his future life to the discovery of the why and the how of the blood's motion and to the demonstration of this process. To me, Harvey's chief glory does not lie in the fact that he discovered the circulation of the blood, but in his having decided to do this and to do it by means of a scientific demonstration, which was a new approach in science.

"Harvey's great personality is reflected not only in his discovery, but in his method, the famous scientific Harveian method based on observation, reasoning and experimentation, exactly the opposite of the authoritarian dogmatic method of his predecessors. Harvey's method initiated the mensurative approach in medical science, the basis of all modern research."

Dr. Guthrie followed with an historical presentation of "The Adventures of William Harvey and of His Discovery."

"Scientists of the day misunderstood the discovery of the circulation of the blood and said it was 'contrary to the wisdom of nature,'" Dr. Guthrie pointed out. "The real significance of Harvey's work in the practice of medicine was not apparent for at least two centuries, and it took about fifty years before those best qualified to judge, the anatomists and scientists, appreciated its significance.

"Why this long delay in the acceptance of a truth so obvious? Harvey lectured on the circulation of the blood for 12 years before stating his views in print and by that time he was regarded as a crank. His methods of investiga-

DR. MCGAVACK LEAVES TO DIRECT V.A. POST IN SOUTH

Recently, a group of about forty members of the Faculty gathered at a cocktail party given by the College to wish Tom McGavack God speed on his leaving us to live in Virginia. A high fidelity record player was presented to him by his friends.

After twenty-one years of service in the Department of Medicine, Dr. Thomas H. McGavack has resigned to direct a Geriatric Division in a Facility of the Veterans Administration at Martinsville, West Virginia. As Professor of Clinical Medicine at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., he will continue his academic career but his chief responsibility will consist of development of a newly created Geriatric Service.

After receiving his M.D. degree from Hahnemann Medical College in 1923 and serving a residency in pathology, Dr. McGavack joined the Department of Medicine at the University of California where he became interested in endocrinology and metabolism. Through the publication of many significant investigations, he attracted the attention of the College Administration and was invited to join the Faculty of the College in 1936. The association was a fortunate one for the College and ultimately Dr. McGavack was appointed Professor of Clinical Medicine in recognition of his unusual ability as a teacher and investigator.

During his many years of association, Dr. McGavack received many honors. Only a few years have elapsed since he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa when a chapter was installed at Hamden-Sidney from which he had received his B.A. degree many years before. Likewise, he was made a member of Alpha Omega Alpha when a chapter of this honorary medical fraternity was installed at Hahnemann Medical College.

Although Dr. McGavack is probably best known to the medical profession by virtue of his textbook on "Diseases of the Thyroid" and for his monograph on "Diseases of the Pancreas," many of his earlier studies on the anti-histaminics, on obesity, and on diabetes insipidus were outstanding. It was, however, his devotion to the Research Program of the College at the Bird S. Coler Memorial Hospital which led him to become deeply interested in the metabolic problems of the aged so that an opportunity to devote himself exclusively to the study of large numbers of elderly patients under the auspices of the Veterans Administration proved irresistible.

Dr. McGavack loved to teach and twenty-one classes of students received lasting benefits of his stimulating influence and knowledge. Moreover, he accomplished a great deal by his willingness to serve on committees and organizations in local, state, national, and international medical societies, in many of which he was a director or officer. In 1957 he was President of the American Geriatric Society.

For all these things and many more we shall sorely miss him at the College, but his innumerable friends wish him great success and many years of happiness in his new field of activity.

tion by observation and experiment were completely new and were in themselves a deterrent to the acceptance of his results as it could be accepted only by those prepared to discard old beliefs.

"Before Harvey's day it was known that the blood moved, but it was thought to move with an ebb and flow motion in the veins like the tides of the sea. It was thought that there were two kinds of blood; the dark variety, which originated in the liver and carried nourishment to the body, and the brighter colored blood, which came from the heart and supplied heat. The experimental method of investigation, so strange and novel to Harvey's critics, is now familiar to the most junior medical student. Indeed, the speed of integration of new discoveries today has become almost terrifying and dangerous."

Following the addresses a film was shown on "William Harvey and the Circulation of the Blood," in which his historical experiments were reconstructed.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association of the New York Medical College was called to order by the President, Dr. Walter Mersheimer, at 2:10 P.M., in room 419A of the new college building on Monday, May 27th, 1957.

PRESENT: Drs. Annitto, Armstrong, Barowsky, Blankfein, Bleiberg, Borrelli, Cantwell, Einhorn, Fierro, Fobes, Force, Kay, Kline, Kober, La Monica, Lehr, Matusow, Mersheimer, Nagamatsu, Napp, Nicora, Opler, Rochford, Saltzman, Salzman, Scheiner, Shiner, Silverstein, Slobody, Snyder, Strang, Thompson, Tramont, Barbara and John Vosburgh, Wershush, and many others.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted.

The Treasurer's Report was accepted as read and is included at the end of these minutes.

MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE: Dr. Napp was happy to report that during the past six years the total paid membership has doubled. A membership report for the 1956-57 fiscal year is included at the end of these minutes. Dr. Napp reported the progress made in establishing Auxiliary Alumni groups in out-of-town areas and asked the membership at large for their support in setting up these groups throughout the country.

GROUND HOG DAY: Dr. Borrelli reported that this year's Ground Hog Smoker, held on February 27th, was one of the most successful to date. It was felt that inviting the Junior Class to the celebration enhanced the 'esprit de corps' of alumni-student relationship and should be repeated at future Ground Hog affairs. A detailed expense report is included at the end of these minutes.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE: Dr. Fobes noted a rise in cost for the previous year which was due to the change in format and the use of many more photos than in previous issues. A detailed report of publication expenses is included at the end of these minutes. Dr. Fobes made a plea for out-of-towners to keep in touch with the alumni office and said that he would welcome letters of criticism for improving the Chironian. He expressed his appreciation to the Publications Committee.

DOCTOR'S SICK BENEFIT FUND: Dr. Hayner reported in absentia the amount of funds in the Doctor's Sick Benefit Fund. A detailed report is included at the end of these minutes.

NECROLOGY REPORT: Dr. Shiner, Secretary, read the names and pertinent information of the alumni who died during the past year. A moment of silence was observed in memory of these men. Their names will be published with these minutes in the July Chironian.

A.M.A. CONVENTION: Dr. Fierro urged the members present to attend the Luncheon on Thursday, June 6th and to visit the Alumni Suite at the Plaza Hotel. He also asked the members to register at the alumni booth at the A.M.A. Convention held in the Coliseum.

BANQUET COMMITTEE: Dr. Salzman reported that he expected an attendance of over 300 at the Alumni Banquet that evening. He urged all members present to make every effort to attend the banquet.

ELECTIONS COMMITTEE: Dr. Slobody presented for acceptance the slate of officers for the coming year. The secretary cast one ballot for the nominees and the new officers were duly elected.

NEW BUSINESS: Dr. Napp brought forth the following amendment to the constitution for a vote:

ALL PAST PRESIDENTS, UPON COMPLETION OF THEIR TERM IN OFFICE SHALL AUTOMATICALLY BECOME HONORARY PRESIDENTS AND MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

A discussion ensued on the question and the amendment was amended to read as follows:

ALL PAST PRESIDENTS, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE IMMEDIATE PAST PRESIDENT, SHALL BE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS, EX-OFFICIO, WITHOUT VOTE.

Dr. Napp accepted the changes to the amendment and it was passed by the membership at large.

It was suggested that the Alumni Day Program include a scientific session. After a lengthy discussion on the pros and cons of the question, the membership voted that the Board of Governors be empowered to make the final decision.

The meeting adjourned at 3:05 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,

IRVING S. SHINER, M.D., Secretary
