The Graduation Committee will meet at 4 p.m., Monday, March 21, at the Office of College Relations, Room 405.

SOCIAL NOTES

LEIBEL WOLFE, member of the class of 1975, and GAYLE NAHORNIK, a junior in the Women's Division, have become engaged.

DAVID SHATZ, Instructor in Philosophy, and Mrs. Shatz are the parents of a new son, Gedalyahu Aharon, born February 28, 1977. They are also the parents of Meira, 3½.

NEW ANTHOLOGY

MICHAEL POPKIN, Instructor of Languages and Literature, is the co-editor of Modern French Literature, a two-volume anthology of literary criticism recently published by the Frederick Ungar Publishing Company. The anthology, which is primarily intended to serve as a library reference work, includes critical excerpts dealing with over 160 French writers of the twentieth century, not only from France but also from Belgium, Switzerland, Canada, the Caribbean, and Africa. Almost 100 of the writers discussed are also represented as critics, and nearly half of all the material included was translated into English for the very first time by the editors. Copies of the anthology were ordered by over six hundred libraries in advance of publication, and a set is now on reserve in the Touro College Library.

THREE ARTICLES

FREEMA GOTTLIEB, Assistant Professor of History, has had three articles published recently. "Amy Levy and Feminism" appeared in the Jewish Chronicle Literary Supplement, December 1976; "Roumanian Calvalcade," in European Judaism, Winter 1976; and "Saul Bellow," in the Encyclopædia of Hasidism, published by the Hebrew Publishing Company, New York.

NEW BOOK

The Usages of Hebraisms, an in-depth study of the absorption of Hebraic elements into the English language, has just been published by FRED HEUMAN, Adjunct Assistant Professor of Languages and Literatures. The book also traces the history of Bible translations into the vernacular and shows the Hebraisms used in the English translations of the Book of Psalms.

SPECIAL SERVICES AWARD

ABRAHAM PINTER, Adjunct Assistant Professor of Education, was honored by the Association of Orthodox Jewish Teachers at its annual dinner on January 30, attended by over 1,000 people. A special award was given to Rabbi Pinter for his "tireless work on behalf of education, his zealous concern for the orthodox teacher in the public school system, and his devotion and dedication to community 'klial work'."

NEW BOOK AND GRANT

A fourth scholarly work on the history of Jewish resistance and partisanship in Lithuania and White Russia during World War II by LESTER ECKMAN, Assistant Professor of History, is now being published by Shengold Publishing Inc., New York. Prof. Eckman also been awarded a grant from the Kaplan Foundation to research and write another work dealing with ethics.

NOTICE FROM THE DEAN

All faculty members should establish regular office hours. If you have not done so, please report your hours to Robert Goldschmidt so that he may be able to inform students of the hours that you are available for conferences.

The following offices have been set aside for general faculty use:

- 801 - Arts and Communications, Languages and Literatures, Sociology
 - 803 - Mathematics, Economics and Business
 - 604 - History, Philosophy, Political Science
 - 605 - Education, Psychology
- The Sciences have offices in the Labs

In addition, many classrooms are available before and after classes. For information on the availability of rooms and offices or for requests for keys to faculty offices, contact the Office of the Registrar.

FROM THE REGISTRAR

All faculty should note that the deadline for the removal of "incompletes" from the Fall 1976 semester is Friday, March 25th. Grades should be submitted to the Office of the Registrar within one week of that date. Change of grade forms are available from the Office of the Registrar or in the Women's Division Office.

SUMMER FELLOWSHIP

JAMES DEMETRIUS, Adjunct Associate Professor of Languages and Literature, has been awarded a fellowship to teach in Athens, Greece, in the summer of 1977. In addition, he has completed a manuscript for the teaching of English as a Second Language which will be published this spring.

EDITOR'S NOTE

With your cooperation Volume I, No. 1 of Touro College Notes has been issued as scheduled. Please continue to send items of interest to the Touro community to the Office of College Relations so that "Notes" can come out on a regular basis. Please give very specific information (i.e. publisher add date of publications, place, date, and auspices of guest lectures). Meanwhile, heartiest good wishes to all for a wonderful Passover holiday.

DEADLINE FOR NEXT ISSUE OF "NOTES" IS THURSDAY, APRIL 14.
