AI is the New MD?

By Conor Prendergast

Will AI become the new MD?

It's "faster, smarter, and cheaper" than humans.

But what does that mean for you and me?

Such a turbulent topic since ChatGPT

Ushered in the onset of the AI revolution,

Where AI becomes the new MD?

Imagine patient visits with a robot and screen.

If the machine's wrong, who'll they sue then,

What could that mean for you and me?

We've seen this before with Internet in the nineties:

New technology's always met with doom and gloom predictions

Now: "will AI become the new MD?"

No—AI will help medicine, it won't be a Terminator movie

From pharma to genes to cancer, it'll be part of the solution.

That's what it means for you and me.

Ready or not, AI is approaching quickly

May be turbulent but towards it medicine is moving.

Could AI become the new MD?

What could that mean to you and me?
